more than a simple, standard off-the-shelf solution

The right hanger helps the sale

– with every product we make, it's our aim to make a positive contribution to the retail process.

As a world class manufacturer of garment hangers, Mainetti works in partnership with its customers to create and supply products which not only accelerate and enhance the sales process but also play a vital part in controlling business costs.

Mainetti hangers are designed from the outset to meet your particular retail challenges. Every product for every niche market and segment has unique characteristics, and at Mainetti we identify these factors so as to create a hanger that is precisely right for each retail proposition.

Part of the challenge is to devise a solution that minimises handling, while delivering product in bulk to the point of sale in perfect, pristine condition – looking as immaculate and attractive as the moment it left the factory floor.

How do we achieve this? We touch on the answers to that question in this brochure. But, in brief, the route to our and your success comprises meticulous research and development to ensure that the hanger becomes a part of the marketing mix, supreme design skills, the location of manufacturing facilities close to our customers' centres of production, and supply chain management of the highest order.

The Suit hanger : SG, 'spalla gommata' meaning 'rubber pads', has broad soft flexible ends to provide an anti-slip surface that helps prevent garment crush.

Highly trained staff help you select the hanger best suited for your needs.

Through each customer's close involvement we are able to deliver design solutions that solve real problems.

"We have years of experience in traditional and innovative techniques designed to influence a customer's decision to buy."

D E S I G N T E C H N O L O G Y

Design at Mainetti spans interlocking sciences: the design of the specific product you need to meet a distinct retail opportunity plus the design and development of the automated process technology and injection moulding tools required to manufacture it.

more than hanger solutions which happen to look good

Our hangers don't just look good, they look great

- and there's a reason for every design feature...

at Mainetti form follows function.

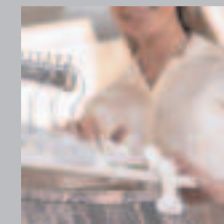

Mainetti's designers have accumulated vast knowledge and expertise in every aspect of garment hanger technology and use. This invaluable customer resource delivers innovative solutions covering a spectrum of factors, including style and appearance, contribution to marketing, functionality, cost/performance and environmental issues.

The key to getting the right design lies in building partnerships with customers so that our design team understands exactly their objectives and imperatives. Through such close collaboration, Mainetti routinely delivers high quality solutions to real world, everyday business problems.

The exciting reality for Mainetti designers is that the quest is never over. As garment and associated retailing evolves, new hanger solutions are needed. And, though fashions may change, one aspect of Mainetti remains constant – our single-minded pursuit of the ideal hanger solution!

The Clip hanger : This distinctively shaped, market-leading U-section clip hanger features soft rubber adjustable clips for perfect garment sizing and immaculate presentation and a polished surface for moulding impact.

Specified hanger programmes help to cut cost.

Our clients' individual objectives remain our primary focus.

“Attention to detail and dedicated care is continuous, ensuring the customer's total satisfaction.”

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

more than a Research and development at Mainetti hanger designed focuses on more than a hanger's physical attributes to meet a – how it's used is also actively considered. proven need

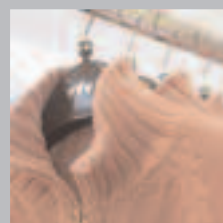

Research and Development is the necessary precursor of design, but can be less formal than it sounds. It involves achieving a keen understanding of the customer's needs and the issues surrounding them. What is required is a package solution, fulfilling a number of stages in the supply chain.

Garment on hanger programmes

Mainetti discovered long ago that its customers sought an across-the-board solution, absolving them of the need to closely manage each and every link in the supply chain. This is why we pioneered the idea of specified hanger programmes – also known as GOH (garment on hanger) programmes – which have become today's procurement style of choice.

The principle behind such schemes is to provide retailers with the platform needed to optimise transport and distribution efficiencies, while at the same time maximising the eye appeal of garments displayed for sale. Once the hanger specification is agreed, the retailer advises the garment manufacturer of the nominated product which is then delivered by Mainetti to the garment factory where garments are hung on the specified product before delivery direct to the retail outlet. There are many variations on this basic theme.

Crucially, specified hanger programmes deliver reduced cost benefits to the retailer since the transport hanger doubles as the display hanger, obviating needless handling. Even more to the point, Mainetti's network of production facilities located close to the garment producers ensures lean logistics and a rapid response.

The Tops hanger : Versatile tops hangers with sophisticated neck area and a polished surface for moulding vibrant colours. Soft rubberised arms hold garments firmly without snagging. Produced with or without locking underlegs.

We actively work with our business partners to identify problems and deliver imaginative solutions.

Strong, versatile, multi-purpose hangers can protect even the most delicate of garments.

“Brand re-inforcement continues after the sale, as the customer takes the printed hanger home and has a permanent reminder of their purchase.”

more than just a standard image, this is choice on a vast scale

No 'this one or that one' restrictions apply:

at Mainetti you've an immense and exciting world of choice.

You're spoilt for choice at Mainetti. First, you can select from a vast range of designs – or decide to create new ones. Second, you can choose from a huge palette of materials, colours, textures and customising features. And third, we offer a range of options in terms of costs.

Our extensive range of products provides hanging solutions for the most demanding display problems. Our basic offering spans skirts, trousers, tops and dresses hangers and hangers for outerwear, lingerie, knitwear and childrenswear. In addition we produce hangers for gloves, scarves, belts, footwear and more...

In every category, the latest science is applied. Innovative tension control mechanisms eliminate the overstretching of waistbands. Rubber technology is used to minimise garment slippage and to protect delicate easily marked fabrics. Outerwear hangers developed especially for the female form ensure that a multitude of fashion styles can be displayed with supreme confidence.

Colour can have a dramatic impact on garment presentation, which is why Mainetti's range of colour options includes wood effect, crystal clear, metallic, pearlescent and film finishes. And once you have selected the hanger best suited to present your garment, you can help build your brand image with a range of print options including pad, hot foil, plaques and print – flat, raised, sunken raised or 3D. Apart from colour and print, other 'add-ons' such as size markers can be applied to Mainetti hangers to great effect.

Adding a distinctive look - the garment seal

Another simple yet effective marketing tool is the Mainetti garment seal. By helping to create an attractively different display, garment seals add value to any garment presentation. They are available in a wide range of colours and styles with diverse cord options.

Special Finishes: Mainetti has many years of experience in producing specialist colour options including wood effect, crystal clear, metallic, pearlescent and film finishes, employing traditional and innovative techniques and processes. Our flexible production facilities can accommodate the finest of specification tolerances. By incorporating the widest number of colour matching technologies we ensure a rapid response for non-standard requirements, which co-ordinate harmoniously with your store environment.

just good enough :
much more

Quality is evident in everything we do and, with us, you can depend on consistency, reliability and strict adherence to standards.

Quality is all-embracing. Naturally, it's in the designs and materials used and workmanship applied. But it's also in our products being not only fit for the purposes for which they are designed – but perfect!

Mainetti hangers, fashioned by automated equipment capable of handling and applying polymer, metal and rubber in a single operation, are designed to do more than provide a way of presenting suits and skirts, trousers and knitwear, ties, belts, scarves, footwear, socks... the list is almost endless.

In particular, they are designed to display the garment to its best possible advantage, to encourage prompt purchase. What a Mainetti hanger does for a garment is a vital subject for consideration. Fashioned from appropriately coloured and textured materials, with strong brand connections, they can do much to increase the appeal of a garment on the rail. By reinforcing brand image, they strengthen the pull of the brand, calling to mind all the related brand applications that the prospective purchaser may have seen. And if the brand is a high quality one, so much the better.

Whatever your sales objectives, you can be sure that Mainetti's approach will be based on a total quality approach, every time.

Printing : In a marketplace becoming more and more brand conscious personalisation of garment hangers is a proven aid to sales. Mainetti offers a variety of flexible print options incorporating hot foil, plaques and raised print.

Mainetti production never stops. It proceeds on a 24/7 basis across a worldwide network of factories aimed at serving local industries wherever garments are being produced and benefits from continuous investment in every aspect of the manufacturing process.

more than the prompt and efficient fulfillment of orders

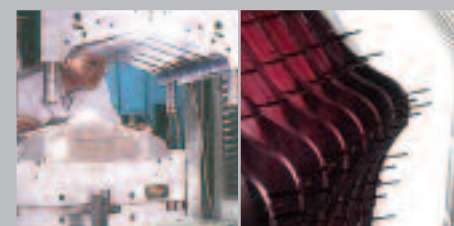

Manufacture at Mainetti is a dynamic science, continuously evolving in line with the development of new technologies.

Fulfilling orders, with unstinting commitment to quality, reliability, timeliness, service and exceptional value for money, is our prime objective. To achieve this we depend on technically advanced equipment and the talent of a well-trained, loyal workforce, operating across the world.

Mainetti Tecnologie designs, develops and manufactures leading edge robotic systems and automated equipment for the production of high quality garment hangers at the lowest possible cost, while Mainetti manufactures the actual hangers themselves. Being able to control the entire spectrum of activity from order placement through to final delivery enables us to offer our customers an extraordinary degree of flexibility and all-important speed-to-market.

Furthermore, the ability to work in diverse materials, from metals and rubbers through to a wide variety of polymers means that we can frequently suggest hanger solutions which bring in their wake important performance, appearance and cost benefits.

Manufacturing : Serving an industry which is dynamic and constantly evolving, we are committed to anticipating future needs and to investing in the equipment and facilities needed to retain our position as industry leaders.

Mainetti hangers
are discreet,

more than around the world, we're around the corner

Global strength matters in today's enterprising world

– but so too does the ability to deliver excellence on a local basis, wherever garments are manufactured.

Garment manufacturing is now truly global, driven by market forces to new levels of competitive endeavour. Yes, Mainetti is based in many European countries and North America, yet it's also at home and working hard on the ground, in places like Malaysia, Sri Lanka, India and Indonesia. Moreover, we're still expanding.

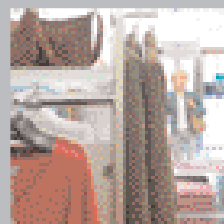

The philosophy is clear. You have to be able to deliver where the action is, be it Egypt, Turkey, the USA or China. And as the action moves to new countries, you can rely on us to be there, ready to serve. Through our network of sister companies, there is a Mainetti company close at hand providing the same quality, reliability, service and value for money.

We call this our 'needlepoint' manufacturing model and it is complemented by high calibre, just-in-time delivery. The term expresses precisely what we are about – taking on the design, production and delivery of hangers for specified hanger programmes at particular locations offering a high quality product, matched by a raft of supply chain management benefits.

Environmental care

Wherever we work around the world, we're committed to taking action to preserve the environment, through a series of recycling schemes developed in partnership with our clients. Mainetti pioneered the recycling of garment hangers and today our recycling, reprocessing and resorting facilities offer both a cost-effective service to our customers and a model for the industry at large.

Point of Sale : Mainetti hangers helping here to promote the exciting new brand Per Una. Hangers can be an important aid to strengthen the image and impact of the brand, enticing and persuading the customer to buy.

Emphasis is placed on quality, design innovation and personalisation to create a true look of distinction.
